

(TMI Newsletter – December 2013)

NANCY MCMONEAGLE

Change Agent for Fast Times

Returning to her role as Executive Director after 23 years, Nancy "Scooter" McMoneagle describes the arc of her participation with TMI, beginning in the 70s when she worked with step father Bob Monroe and others to develop what became The Monroe Institute.

As we reported last week in our announcement of Nancy's appointment, "From 1983 to 1991 [she] served as director, ushering TMI into a time of fast growth and global recognition. Her return at this juncture seems particularly relevant, as TMI is once again on the brink of expansion."

Nancy McMoneagle, Executive Director and President of The Monroe Institute

\(See the link to this video in the notes section below\)